

SCHOOL OF COMPUTING AND INFORMATION SCIENCES

The School of Computing and Information Sciences is envisioned as the University's instrument in bridging the digital divide between the academe, industry and community, offering computing sciences programs committed to the creative, competent and Christian transformation of individuals as agents of progress.

